

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information apparatus includes a determination unit which determines a presence/absence of a received mail message via a network, and a control unit which 5 acquires and stores, when the determination unit determines the presence of the received mail message, the received mail message in a storage medium, and outputs video data which contains image information to notify of a fact of mail reception from a video output
10 terminal to a television receiver.